

When we go to an 18th grade officer for verification of our documents, it is mandatory to have the original documents in hand to verify the authenticity of the copied documents.

Quran Surah 3 verse 3:

He sent down to you the Book, which has brought the truth and is confirming all the books that came before, called the Torah and the Gospel.

Now, if the officer testify about the copied documents when the original documents never existed, then the officer is a liar and those documents are questionable. If the original documents are available, then that's the end of the matter-

Now this problem has to be solved by the Muslim:

1. as to whether the confirmation of the Torah and the Gospel according to the Qur'an was true, or
2. that the Qur'an confirmed them, even though their original texts did not exist.

If those words existed and the confirmation of the Qur'an was true, then if a Muslim says that it is not true, then he would have denied the Qur'an.

If the original scriptures did not exist and yet the Qur'an confirmed them, then like this officer, the Qur'an lied, and now nothing of the Qur'an can be accepted as true.

The decision has to be made by the Muslims, as to whether the confirmation of the Qur'an about the previous books are true or false.
